Children in the neighborhood would build a tree house in the wooded area in the back of our house they were very creative and kept busy.

They made stilts out of wood 2x4s from scrap pieces from family projects, walked around learning how to balance on them. It was a team effort to help each other master it.

When Stenen was able to purchase his first vehicle it was a Toyota pick up truck that was a very proud moment for him he had his grandfather with him.

This was responsibility to own and be able to go to work independantly and be on time.

As time went on he modified the truck and cut the top off converted it to convertible pickup.

This was one of the things he learned to do and painted it. He also loved vintage cars, as he got older.

He was inspired by his uncles to learn how a engine was torn down and rebuilt.

He soon had a mustang he raced on the track Detroit Dragway.

He also enjoyed riding motorcycles
