CITY OF DETROIT, MICHIGAN,

Case No. 13-53846

Debtor.

Hon. Steven W. Rhodes

BRIEF IN SUPPORT OF CATHERINE PHILLIPS, et al.'S MOTION FOR RELIEF
FROM ORDER PURSUANT TO SECTION 105(a) OF THE BANKRUPTCY CODE
EXTENDING THE CHAPTER 9 STAY TO CERTAIN (A) STATE ENTITIES, (B) NON OFFICER EMPLOYEES AND (C) AGENTS AND REPRESENTATIVES OF THE DEBTOR

On March 27, 2013, Petitioners Catherine Phillips, et al. (hereafter "Petitioners") filed a civil rights action in the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Michigan, challenging the validity of PA 436 on federal statutory and constitutional grounds, pursuant to 42 U.S.C. §1983. See, Catherine Phillips, et al. v. Richard Snyder and Andrew Dillon, Case No. 13-CV-11370, (Exh. 6.1, Phillips Complaint), (hereafter, the "Phillips case"). Governor Richard D. Snyder and State Treasurer Andrew Dillon are the only named defendants in the suit, while Petitioners represent a cross-section of citizens from communities across the State of Michigan that are directly affected by the enactment of PA 436. On July 18, 2013, the Debtor filed for Chapter 9 bankruptcy. At that time, all litigation against the Debtor or its property was automatically stayed pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 362(a) and 922. One week later, on July 25, 2013, upon Debtor's motion, (Dkt. 56, Motion of Debtor For Entry of Order Extending the Chapter 9 Stay to Certain (A) State Entities, (B) Non-Officer Employees and (C) Agents and Representatives of the Debtor, (hereafter "Motion to Extend Stay"), this Court entered an Order Pursuant to Section 105(a) of the Bankruptcy Code Extending the Chapter 9 Stay to Certain (A) State Entities, (B) Non Officer Employees and (C) Agents and Representatives of the Debtor (Dkt.

166), (hereafter “Extended Stay Order”).

Among those “State Entities” were the two named defendants in the Phillips case, Governor Snyder and Treasurer Dillon. At issue in Petitioners’ Motion herein is this Court’s decision to stay all pre-petition litigation against these defendants, despite the fact that they are not officers, employees, agents, or representatives of the Debtor, and in no way otherwise share some close nexus or special relationship with the Debtor such that a suit against the Defendants would be, in effect, an action against the Debtor. Nor are the substantive issues within the Phillips case related in any way to the instant bankruptcy proceeding, to the enforcement of claims against Debtor, or to and of Debtor’s activities in this Chapter 9 case. Petitioners seek a lift of the stay as to the Phillips case on several grounds: (1) that Debtor never asked for or intended that the stay order would be so broadly worded; (2) that the inclusion of the non-debtor defendants from the Phillips case in the Extended Stay Order (Dkt. 166) exceeds the permissible scope of such a stay under 11 U.S.C. §§ 105(a), 362(a), and 922; (3) that even if the Bankruptcy Code permitted the extension of automatic stays to non-debtor third parties with no connection to the Debtor, the Extended Stay Order (Dkt. 166) fails to further the purposes for which such stays are provided; and (4), of utmost importance, where the Petitioners allege ongoing constitutional violations, enforcement of the Constitution cannot be subjugated by the bankruptcy process.

STANDARD OF REVIEW

When a bankruptcy petition is filed, most judicial actions against the debtor that were commenced before the filing of the petition are automatically stayed during the pendency of the bankruptcy petition. 11 U.S.C. § 362(a)(1). However, this automatic stay provision was not intended to immutably relegate creditors to a world of limbo or to the resolution of the civil claims within the limitations of a bankruptcy proceeding. Instead, as Congress recognized when enacting the automatic stay provision:

[I]t will often be more appropriate to permit proceedings to continue in their place of origin, when no great prejudice to the bankruptcy estate would result, in order to leave the parties to their chosen forum and to relieve the bankruptcy court from many duties that may be handled elsewhere.

S. Rep. No. 989, 95th Cong., 2d Sess. 50, reprinted in 1978 U.S. Code Cong. & Admin. News 5780, 5836.

Recognizing that some actions are better suited to resolution outside the bankruptcy forum, Congress specifically granted—in the same provision establishing the automatic stay—full discretion to the bankruptcy court to lift the stay and allow litigation to go forward in another forum. Section 362(d) of the Bankruptcy Code provides:

On request of a party in interest and after notice and a hearing, the court shall grant relief from the stay provided under [§ 362(a)], such as by terminating, annulling, modifying, or conditioning such stay—(1) for cause, including the lack of adequate protection of an interest in property of such party in interest

11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(1) (emphasis added).

To determine whether sufficient cause exists to grant relief from the stay in a non-bankruptcy forum, the bankruptcy court must scrutinize the factual circumstances of the case before it. Christensen v. Tucson Estates, Inc. (In re Tucson Estates, Inc.), 912 F.2d 1162, 1166 (9th Cir. 1990); Pursifull v. Eakin, 814 F.2d 1501, 1506 (10th Cir. 1987); Sumitomo Trust & Banking Co., Ltd. v. Holly's, Inc. (In re Holly's, Inc.), 140 B.R. 643, 687 (Bankr. W.D. Mich. 1992). Among other factors, the Court should consider whether modifying the stay will promote judicial economy. See, e.g., Robbins, 964 F.2d at 344; In re MacDonald, 755 F.2d 715, 717 (9th Cir. 1985); see also 2 Collier on Bankruptcy ¶ 362.07[3] (15th ed. 1991) (noting that relief may be granted from the automatic stay where “the liquidation of a claim may be more conveniently and speedily determined in another forum”). Another particularly compelling consideration is whether the bankruptcy petition was filed by the debtor “on the eve of the resolution of pending prepetition litigation.” In re Wilson, 85 B.R. 722, 728 (Bankr. E.D. Pa. 1988) (citing Matter of Holtkamp, 669 F.2d 505, 509 (7th Cir. 1982)); see also, In re Castlerock Props., 781 F.2d 159, 163 (9th Cir. 1986); In re Olmstead, 608 F.2d 1365, 1368 (10th Cir. 1979); In re Borbridge, 81 B.R. 332, 335 (Bankr. E.D. Pa. 1988); In re Philadelphia Athletic Club, 9 B.R. 280, 282 (Bankr. E.D. Pa. 1981).

In the most recent large-scale municipal bankruptcy, the question of “cause” to lift a stay was framed thusly:

To determine whether "cause" exists to lift the stay and allow a suit to proceed in a non-bankruptcy forum, a court typically analyzes whether (1) any great prejudice to either the bankrupt estate or the debtor will result from continuation of a civil suit, (2) the hardship to the non-bankrupt party by maintenance of the stay considerably outweighs the hardship to the debtor, and (3) the creditor has a probability of prevailing on the merits of its lawsuit. Chizzali v. Gindi (In re Gindi), 642 F.3d 865, 872 (10th Cir. 2011), overruled on other grounds by TW Telecom Holdings Inc. v. Carolina Internet Ltd., 661 F.3d 495 (10th Cir. 2011) (emphasis added); Caves, 309 B.R. at 80; In re Pro Football Weekly, Inc., 60 B.R. 824, 826 (N.D.Ill.1986).

ARGUMENT

I. DEBTOR NEVER INTENDED OR ASKED FOR A STAY ORDER THAT WOULD ENCOMPASS ALL ACTIONS AGAINST THE “STATE ENTITIES,” WITHOUT REFERENCE TO THE NATURE OF THE ACTION.

The simplest solution to correct the overbreadth of the Extended Stay Order (Dkt. 166) is to recognize that Debtor never sought so broad a stay order as that which ultimately issued from this Court; that it was never intended that the Extended Stay Order (Dkt. 166) should apply to actions such as Petitioners’ Phillips case, which do not implicate any of the Debtors’ interests that are protected by Chapter 9; and that the Extended Stay Order (Dkt. 166) does not and should not, in fact, apply to Petitioners’ case.

Such a conclusion is not only supported by the plain language of the Bankruptcy Code and its underlying intent, but also by the language of Debtor's own motion seeking extension of the Chapter 9 stay. Debtor did not ask that all actions against the non-debtor Defendants be stayed, but rather only those actions "that, directly or indirectly, seek to enforce claims against the City, interfere with the City's activities in this Chapter 9 case or otherwise deny the City the protections of the Chapter 9 stay." Absent such limiting language, Debtor's motion would rightly have been attacked as seeking relief that was massively overbroad and, in many instances, not even remotely related to the purposes for which Chapter 9 protections exist.

Unfortunately, the absence of such language in the Extended Stay Order (Dkt. 166) has created precisely such an impermissibly broad-ranging stay. In its current form and breadth, the Extended Stay Order (Dkt. 166) provides that "the Chapter 9 stay hereby is extended to apply in all respects (to the extent not otherwise applicable) to the State Entities." (Dkt. 166, Extended Stay Order, at p. 2) Without the modification or clarification sought by Petitioners herein, the Extended Stay Order therefore not only fails to limit its application in the way requested by Debtor, but instead encourages the broadest possible reading, as evidenced by the words of United States District Court, Honorable George Steeh in his Order Regarding Notice of Pendency of Bankruptcy Case and Application of the Automatic Stay, (Exh. 6.3, Phillips case, Dkt. #30) (hereafter "Steeh Order"), staying Petitioners' declaratory/injunctive relief civil rights action that is the subject of this Motion:

Although it is not apparent that any interests of the City of Detroit bankruptcy proceedings are implicated in the case, the plain language of the stay order would apply to this lawsuit.

In accordance with the broadly worded Extension Order issued by the bankruptcy court, this court will abide by the stay unless and until such time as an order issues lifting or modifying the stay to permit the captioned matter to proceed.

(Exh. 6.3, Phillips case, Dkt. #30, Steeh Order) (emphasis added).

This was not the relief sought by Debtor in its Motion to Extend Stay (Dkt. 56), and it was not the relief that should have been granted. Clarifying the Extended Stay Order to make clear that it only applies to actions against the res of the Debtor, or even adopting verbatim the language proposed by the Debtor in its Motion to Extend Stay (Dkt. 56), would permit actions against non-Debtor “State Entities” to continue in courts across the State where such actions do not defeat or frustrate the purposes of Debtor’s bankruptcy proceedings.

II. THE RELEVANT PROVISIONS OF THE BANKRUPTCY CODE DO NOT AUTHORIZE EXTENDING THE AUTOMATIC STAY OF PREPETITION LITIGATION TO ALL ACTIONS AGAINST THE NON-DEBTOR STATE ENTITIES SNYDER AND DILLON.

The relevant provisions of the Bankruptcy Code providing for automatic stays of litigation in Chapter 9 bankruptcy are 11 U.S.C. §§ 362(a) and 922. Section 362(a) provides in pertinent part:

- (a) Except as provided in subsection (b) of this section, a petition filed under section 301,302, or 303 of this title, or an application filed under section 5(a)(3) of the Securities Investor Protection Act of 1970, operates as a stay, applicable to all entities, of—
- (1) the commencement or continuation, including the issuance or employment of process, of a judicial, administrative, or other action or proceeding against the debtor that was or could have been commenced before the commencement of the case under this title, or to recover a claim against the debtor that arose before the commencement of the case under this title;
 - (2) the enforcement, against the debtor or against property of the estate, of a judgment obtained before the commencement of the case under this title;
 - (3) any act to obtain possession of property of the estate or of property from the estate or to exercise control over property of the estate;
 - (4) any act to create, perfect, or enforce any lien against property of the estate;
 - (5) any act to create, perfect, or enforce against property of the debtor any lien to the extent that such lien secures a claim that arose before the commencement of the case under this title;
 - (6) any act to collect, assess, or recover a claim against the debtor that arose before the commencement of the case under this title;

(7) the setoff of any debt owing to the debtor that arose before the commencement of the case under this title against any claim against the debtor; ...

11 U.S.C. § 362(a) (emphases added). Thus on its face, § 362(a) is concerned with preventing the initiation or continuation of any litigation against the debtor or the bankruptcy estate and therefore expressly authorizes staying litigation of claims against the debtor or the estate.

Section 922 makes several other provisions for automatic stays in the Chapter 9 context:

- (a) A petition filed under this chapter operates as a stay, in addition to the stay provided by section 362 of this title, applicable to all entities, of—
- (1) the commencement or continuation, including the issuance or employment of process, of a judicial, administrative, or other action or proceeding against an officer or inhabitant of the debtor that seeks to enforce a claim against the debtor; and
 - (2) the enforcement of a lien on or arising out of taxes or assessments owed to the debtor.

11 U.S.C. § 922(a) (emphases added). On its face, §922 is thus also concerned with preventing the initiation or continuation of any litigation against the debtor. Indeed, § 922 seeks to protect the municipal debtor from both direct and indirect actions against the debtor, where a creditor might sue the officers or inhabitants of a municipality in order to reach the assets of the debtor. In re City of Stockton, 484 B.R. 372, 378-379 (Bankr. E.D. Cal. 2012).

But there is nothing in the Code that provides for staying actions against non-debtor third parties such as the State defendants in the Phillips case. Indeed, with respect to §362(a), the Sixth Circuit has noted that “said provision facially stays proceedings ‘against the debtor’ and fails to intimate, even tangentially, that the stay could be interpreted as including any defendant other than the debtor.” Lynch v. Johns-Manville Sales Corp., 710 F.2d 1194, 1196 (6th Cir. 1983). In Lynch court further found:

It is universally acknowledged that an automatic stay of proceeding accorded by § 362 may not be invoked by entities such as sureties, guarantors, co-obligors, or others with a similar legal or factual nexus to the . . . debtor...The legislative history of §362 discloses a congressional intent to stay proceedings against the debtor, and no other.

Id.

Even in cases where a broader construction to the automatic-stay provisions of §362 have been applied, the extension of a stay to non-debtor third parties typically only occurs when they are co-defendants of the debtor, and even then, only in the most unusual circumstances:

[S]omething more than the mere fact that one of the parties to the lawsuit has filed a Chapter 11 bankruptcy must be shown in order that proceedings be stayed against non-bankrupt parties. This "unusual situation," it would seem, arises when there is such identity between the debtor and the third-party defendant that the debtor may be said to be the real party defendant and that a judgment against the third-party defendant will in effect be a judgment or finding against the debtor. An illustration of such a situation would be a suit against a third-party who is entitled to absolute indemnity by the debtor on account of any judgment that might result against them in the case.

A.H. Robins Co. v. Piccinin, 788 F.2d 994, 999 (4th Cir. 1986)

Such unusual circumstances are not present here. Petitioners have not sued Debtor; thus, the underlying defendants in the Phillips case -- Snyder and Dillon -- are not co-defendants with Debtor. Nor is there "such identity" between the Phillips defendants and Debtor that Debtor would be the real party defendant in the Phillips case. Likewise, the Phillips defendants are not officers or inhabitants of Debtor, and Petitioners' suit does not seek to enforce any claim against Debtor, rendering § 922 inapplicable. As such, authority for inclusion of the Phillips case under the scope of the Extended Stay Order cannot be found in either §§362(a) or 922(a) of the Bankruptcy Code.

Nor can such authority be found in § 105(a). While it is true that a bankruptcy court is granted additional powers to issue orders that are "necessary or appropriate to carry out the provisions of this title," pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 105(a), such powers are not without limits. As recognized in GAF Corp. v. Johns-Manville Corp. (In re Johns-Manville Corp.), 26 B.R. 405 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 1983), any extension of a stay made pursuant to § 105 must be carefully circumscribed to ensure that such an extension is only used to protect the debtor.

The GAF Corp. plaintiffs were manufacturers that were named as co-defendants, along with Johns-Manville, in asbestos litigation. When Johns-Manville initiated bankruptcy proceedings, all actions against it were automatically stayed pursuant to §362(a). The GAF Corp. plaintiffs moved for an extension of the stay, pursuant to § 105(a), to include all of Johns-Manville's co-defendants in the asbestos litigation. The court rejected this invitation:

Although Section 105 may be used to extend the stay, Section 105 does not have a life of its own and this extension may only be accomplished within the proper boundaries of Section 362. That is, unless this extension is designed to protect the debtor's interests, it cannot be granted.

* * *

Section 105 of the Code was not intended to grant the bankruptcy court powers without bounds, In re Brada Miller Freight Systems, Inc., 16 Bankr. 1002, 6 C.B.C. 2d 375, 389 (N.D. Ala. 1981), and the court's equitable powers thereunder are not unrestricted. In re Dunckle Associates, Inc., 19 Bankr. 481, 6 C.B.C. 2d 600, 605 (Bankr. E.D. Pa. 1982). See also 2 Collier on Bankruptcy para. 105.02 at 105-7 (15th ed. 1982). See also In re Chanticleer Associates, Ltd., 592 F.2d 70 (2d Cir. 1979).

The crux of the matter before this Court is whether the injunctive relief sought by the co-defendants under Section 105(a) is "necessary or appropriate" in order to achieve the goals of a Chapter 11 reorganization.

GAF Corp. v. Johns-Manville Corp. (In re Johns-Manville Corp.), at 414-415.

The court found that the asbestos litigation plaintiffs would suffer significantly greater harm if the stay was expanded to include the co-defendants than the co-defendants would suffer if the stay was denied, even though the remedy sought by the asbestos plaintiffs was limited to money damages (which meant that such plaintiffs' injuries, however grave, did not constitute "irreparable harm," under a preliminary-injunction standard because an adequate remedy existed at law to compensate the plaintiffs or their survivors):

The asbestos victims will certainly suffer by the total frustration of their opportunity for a day in court. As Chief Judge Peckham stated in the context of asbestos litigation:

Such delay is not costless to these plaintiffs, many of whom are suffering financial hardships and who seek damages to redress their injuries and some of whom are dying and whose testimony must be perpetuated. The defendants may be inconvenienced by expeditious resumption of the actions against them. However, under Landis, the balance of hardship weighs in favor of the injured plaintiffs.

In re Related Asbestos Cases, 23 B.R. 523, 531-2 (N.D. Cal. 1982) (citing Landis v North American Company, 299 U.S. 248, 81 L. Ed. 153, 57 S. Ct. 163 (1936)). Accord, Evans v. Johns-Manville Sales Corp., C.A. No. 80-2939, slip op. at 4-6 (D.N.J., October 5, 1982).

To the same effect, see In re Massachusetts Asbestos Cases, M.B.L. Nos. 1 & 2 (D. Mass. Sept. 28, 1982), in which the court denied a stay against third parties who were co-defendants of a debtor, stating:

The suppliant for a stay must make out a clear case of hardship or inequity in being required to go forward, if there is even a fair possibility that the stay for which he prays will work damage to someone else

Here, it is not a question of a fair possibility. It is certainty that any delay in the continuing efforts to bring these cases to trial will result in continued and increased hardship to the plaintiffs. This is not to ignore the problems of the defendants, but the loss to the plaintiffs far outweighs any possible gain procedural or practical that would inure to them.

Slip Op. at 3.

GAF Corp. v. Johns-Manville Corp. (In re Johns-Manville Corp.), at 417.

Unlike the asbestos-litigation plaintiffs, for whom there existed an adequate (if imperfect) remedy at law in the form of money damages, the Petitioners in the instant case are suffering irreparable harm for which there is no adequate remedy at law as long as the violations of their constitutional rights continue. Chicago Teachers Union v. Hudson, 475 U.S. 292, 106 S.Ct. 1066, 89 L.Ed.2d 232 (1986); Doe v. Duncanville Independent School District, 994 F.2d 160 (5th Cir. 1993). As such, the equities tilt overwhelmingly against using § 105 to extend the stay to the non-debtor defendants in the Phillips case.

Some courts have found that a bankruptcy court lacks the power under § 105 to issue a stay against a non-debtor party, In re American Hardwoods, Inc., 885 F.2d 621, (9th Cir. 1989), while others have cautiously allowed such stays where the equities clearly favor them:

Judicial discretion is not unlimited but is to be carefully honed in light of the facts of the case, applicable precedent and appropriate policy. Fry v. Porter, 1 Mod. [1607] 300, 307. The issuance of a stay by any court of equity requires a showing of serious, if not irreparable, injury and a tipping of the balance of the equities in favor of the party seeking the stay. Landis v. North American Co., 299 U.S. 248, 254-55, 81 L. Ed. 153, 57 S. Ct. 163 (1936); Commodity Futures Trading Commission v. Chilcott Portfolio Mgt. Inc., 713 F.2d 1477 (10th Cir. 1983).

Lesser v. A-Z Assocs. (In re Lion Capital Group), 44 B.R. 690, 701 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 1984)

In the case at bar, the Extended Stay Order (Dkt. 166) is overbroad as applied to the Phillips case because there is simply no reason to believe that Debtor would suffer any substantial harm, let alone irreparable injury, if Petitioners' injunctive action against the underlying defendants was permitted to continue. The District Court recognized as much when it noted that "it is not apparent that any interests of the City of Detroit bankruptcy proceedings are implicated" in Petitioners' action, but concluded that it nevertheless was bound by the terms of the "broadly worded Extension Order issued by the bankruptcy court," and was therefore required to stay the case "unless and until such time as an order issues lifting or modifying the stay to permit the captioned matter to proceed." (Exh. 6.3, Steeh Order, Phillips case)

Where, as here, Snyder and Dillon, as defendants in the Phillips case, are third parties to Debtor's bankruptcy proceedings and there is no close nexus of identity between them and Debtor that would otherwise justify staying litigation against the Phillips defendants, the Bankruptcy Code does not authorize staying Petitioners' action. For that reason, the stay as to the Phillips case should be lifted.

III. STAYING PETITIONERS' ACTION AGAINST DEFENDANTS DOES NOT

FURTHER THE PURPOSES OF THE BANKRUPTCY CODE.

Even assuming that the Bankruptcy Code could be read as permitting the extension of automatic-stay orders to non-debtor third parties in narrow circumstances (i.e., where an action against a non-debtor is really designed to reach the assets of the debtor/estate), such is not the case here. And in any event, when the circumstances surrounding Petitioners' litigation against the defendants Snyder and Dillon are viewed in their totality, it becomes clear that staying this particular litigation is not "necessary or appropriate to carry out the provisions" of the Code, as required by § 105.

There can be no doubt that the stay provisions of the Code are primarily intended to provide protection to the parties to a bankruptcy proceeding: the debtor and the creditors, as best explained in the legislative history of the Code:

The automatic stay is one of the fundamental debtor protections provided by the bankruptcy laws. It gives the debtor a breathing spell from his creditors. It stops all collection efforts, all harassment, and all foreclosure actions. It permits the debtor to attempt a repayment or reorganization plan, or simply to be relieved of the financial pressures that drove him into bankruptcy.

H.R. Rep. 95-595, at 340 (1978), reprinted in 1978 U.S.C.C.A.N. 5787, 6296.

The stay of proceedings was also intended to promote an orderly reorganization or liquidation of the debtor's estate thereby benefiting, secondarily, creditors of the estate:

The automatic stay also provides creditor protection. Without it, certain creditors would be able to pursue their own remedies against the debtor's property. Those who acted first would obtain payment of the claims in preference to and to the detriment of other creditors. Bankruptcy is designed to provide an orderly liquidation procedure under which all creditors are treated equally. A race of diligence by creditors for the debtor's assets prevents that.

Id., reprinted in 1978 U.S.C.C.A.N. 5787, 6297.

Courts have been extremely reluctant to extend this protection to non-debtor third parties, recognizing that "it would distort congressional purpose to hold that a third party solvent codefendant should be shielded against his creditors by a device intended for the protection of the insolvent debtor and creditors thereof.” Lynch v. Johns-Manville Sales Corp., 710 F.2d at 1197. See also: In re Related Asbestos Cases, 23 B.R. 523, 527 (N.D. Cal. 1982); In re UNR Industries, Inc., 23 B.R.144 (Bankr. N.D. Ill. 1982); Ashworth v. Johns-Manville, et al., Nos. C78-470, C81-1545, C77-4088, C79-167 (N.D. Ohio Mar. 21, 1983) at 4.

Asbestos and other mass-tort litigation is instructive on this point, since such cases often involve numerous co-defendants, some of whom are solvent and some of whom are not. In such cases, the solvent defendants are understandably concerned about proceeding without the maximum number of co-defendants and thus prefer to wait until their insolvent co-defendants emerge from bankruptcy. Despite these concerns, where a debtor’s solvent co-defendants have moved for an extension of the automatic stay to cover them, they have been routinely denied. When viewed in light of the test that is typically applied by bankruptcy courts to determine whether a stay should be extended to a non-debtor third-party, that result is hardly surprising. In In re Family Health Servs., 105 B.R. 937 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1989) the court succinctly summarized:

Courts have applied traditional preliminary injunction tests when determining whether to stay actions against non-debtor parties. It has been held that:

In order for the Court to enjoin a creditor's action against a co-debtor or guarantor, the debtor must show: 1) irreparable harm to the bankruptcy estate if the injunction does not issue; 2) strong likelihood of success on the merits; and 3) no harm or minimal harm to the other party or parties. In Re Otero Mills, Inc., 25 Bankr. 1018, 1021 (Bankr. N.M. 1982). In Re Larmar Estates, Inc., 5 Bankr. 328, 331 (Bankr. E.D.N.Y. 1980); In Otero Mills and Larmar the courts determined that "likelihood of success on the merits" equates to the probability of a successful plan of reorganization. Otero Mills, 25 Bankr. at 1021; Larmar, 5 Bankr. at 331.

The Ninth Circuit has stated the standard test to evaluate claims for preliminary injunctive relief as follows:

Under the first part of this test, the movant must show 1) irreparable injury, 2) probable success on the merits, 3) a balance of hardships that tips in the movant's favor, and 4) that a preliminary injunction is in the public interest. Alternatively, a court may issue an injunction if the moving party demonstrates either a combination of probable success on the merits and irreparable injury or that serious questions are raised and the balance of hardships tips in his favor.

F.T.C. v. Evans Products Co., 775 F.2d 1084, 1088-89 (9th Cir. 1985). See also, In re Family Health Servs., 105 B.R. 937, 943 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1989)

Of course, the cases above all involved co-defendants, co-debtors, or guarantors. In this case, the Phillips defendants lack even that once-removed connection to the Debtor. The Phillips case does not name Debtor or any of its agents, employees, officers or representatives as co-defendants or parties in any capacity. But even applying the standard applicable to co-defendants, co-debtors, and guarantors, Defendants are not entitled to a stay.

There is nothing to suggest that Debtor would suffer an irreparable injury to the bankruptcy estate if Petitioners' litigation regarding the constitutionality of Public Act 426 was to proceed during the pendency of Debtor's bankruptcy proceedings. Indeed, there is nothing to suggest that the bankruptcy estate would be in any way affected, as: (1) Debtor is not a party to Petitioners' litigation; (2) Petitioners' litigation seeks no money damages; and (3) to whatever extent Petitioners may be entitled to attorney fees and costs if they prevail in the underlying matter, such an award will be the responsibility of the State of Michigan, not Debtor, as Defendants are State officials.

On the other hand, in light of the constitutional violations alleged by Petitioners in their complaint, Petitioners have suffered and will continue to suffer irreparable harm. Courts have held that the mere fact that constitutional rights are being violated is sufficient to demonstrate irreparable harm. Doe v. Duncanville Independent School District, 994 F.2d 160 (5th Cir. 1993).

Even a temporary loss of a constitutional right constitutes irreparable harm which cannot be adequately remedied by an action at law. Chicago Teachers Union v. Hudson, 475 U.S. 292, 106 S.Ct. 1066, 89 L.Ed.2d 232 (1986). Thus, not only can Debtor not demonstrate irreparable harm to the bankruptcy state if Petitioners' claim against Defendants is not stayed, but it also cannot demonstrate "no harm or minimal harm" to Petitioners if the litigation is stayed. As a result, whether analyzed under a preliminary-injunction framework or a simple balancing of the equities, the extension of the stay to include the Phillips case cannot be upheld.

IV. WHERE PETITIONERS ALLEGE CONSTITUTIONAL VIOLATIONS, ENFORCEMENT OF THE CONSTITUTION MUST TAKE PRECEDENCE OVER STAYING LITIGATION AGAINST NON-DEBTOR DEFENDANTS

As explained above, it is not "necessary or appropriate" that all litigation against the non-debtor Phillips defendants, Snyder and Dillon, be stayed in order to carry out the purposes of the Bankruptcy Code as applied to Debtor. But as written, that is precisely what the Extended Stay Order does. No matter what the facts, no matter what the claims against the State, under the broad language of this Court's Order, no lawsuit of any kind can proceed against the Governor or the State Treasurer until one community—the City of Detroit—emerges from bankruptcy. Thus, both on its face and as applied, the Extended Stay Order (Dkt. 166) operates to deprive all who reside in the entire State of Michigan of their constitutional rights of access to the courts and to petition for a redress of grievances.

A court can hold a statute unconstitutional either because it is facially invalid or unconstitutional as applied in a particular set of circumstances. See Coleman v. Ann Arbor Transp. Auth., 904 F. Supp. 2d 670, 682-83 (E.D. Mich. 2012) (citing Women's Med. Prof'l Corp. v. Voinovich, 130 F.3d 187, 193 (6th Cir. 1997)). In an 'as applied' challenge, "the plaintiff contends that application of the statute in the particular context in which he has acted, or in which he proposes to act, would be unconstitutional." Women's Med. Prof'l Corp., 130 F.3d at 193 (internal citations omitted).

The stay of proceedings as applied to Petitioners' underlying case in Phillips violates their rights under the United States Constitution and the Civil Rights Act, 42 U.S.C. § 1983, to a full remedy for the deprivation of their constitutional rights. As such, Petitioners ask this Court to modify the stay with respect to the Phillips case in order to avoid such constitutional violations under the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments.

Specifically, it violates Petitioners' right to due process in that they no longer have an avenue to vindicate the deprivation of their constitutional rights, as guaranteed by the enforcement power given to Congress by § 5 of the Fourteenth Amendment through 42 U.S.C. §1983, which provides:

Every person who, under color of any statute, ordinance, regulation, custom, or usage of any State . . . subjects, or causes to be subjected thereof to the deprivation of any rights, privileges, or immunities secured by the Constitution and laws, shall be liable to the party injured in an action at law, suit in equity, or other proper proceeding for redress”

42 U.S.C. § 1983.

When Congress adopted the Fourteenth Amendment in 1868, it took steps to ensure that the promise of that amendment—freedom from violations of due process and equal protection by public officials—would be e. Thus, in 1871, the United States Congress first enacted § 1 of the Klu Klux Klan Act, pursuant to § 5 of the Fourteenth Amendment with the express intent to provide for enforcement of that amendment to the United States Constitution, which is specifically entitled, “An Act to enforce the Provisions of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, and for other purposes.” 17 Stat. 13 (1871).

In 1874, Congress codified the substantive portion of the 1871 Act, passing a separate section identical to the present version of the Civil Rights Act, 42 U.S.C. § 1983. The Supreme Court has broadly described the primary purpose of § 1983 as follows:

As a result of the new structure of law that emerged in the post-Civil War era—and especially of the Fourteenth Amendment, which was its centerpiece—the role of the Federal Government as the guarantor of basic federal rights against state power was clearly established. Section 1983 opened the federal courts to private citizens, offering a uniquely federal remedy against incursions under the claimed authority of state law upon rights secured by the Constitution and laws of the Nation

The very purpose of section 1983 was to interpose the federal courts between the States and the people, as guardians of the people’s federal rights—to protect the people from unconstitutional action under color of state law

Mitchum v. Foster, 407 U.S. 225, 238-39, 242 (1972). (emphasis added). Throughout our nation’s history, therefore, the right of our citizens to enforce their rights under the U.S. Constitution in a United States District Court has been a bulwark of democratic principles. Taking away that right should not be taken lightly.

Petitioners’ federal statutory right to vindicate the deprivation of their constitutional rights includes the right to have the United States District Court and a jury of Petitioners’ peers adjudicate their § 1983 cause of action, as guaranteed by 28 U.S.C. § 1343(3). See U.S. Const. amend. VII (guaranteeing the right to trial by jury); 28 U.S.C. § 1343(3) (providing that “[t]he district courts shall have original jurisdiction of any civil action . . . [t]o redress the deprivation under color of any State law . . . of any right, privilege or immunity secured by the Constitution of the United States”).

Congress enacted § 1983 with the “goal of compensating the injured” and “preventing official illegality.” Jaco v. Bloechle, 739 F.2d 239, 244 (6th Cir. 1984) (internal quotations omitted). In doing so, it clearly established the Federal Government as the guarantor of “the basic federal rights of individuals against incursions by state power.” Patsy v. Bd. of Regents of State of Fla., 457 U.S. 496, 503 (1981).

The application of the automatic stay herein to Petitioners’ case contravenes the very purpose and intent of Congress and the Supreme Court in enacting and enforcing § 1983, to provide a judicial remedy for the violation of one's rights under the Constitution. Accord Felder v. Casey, 487 U.S. 131, 148 (1988) (recognizing that civil rights actions "belong in court") (quoting Burnett v. Grattan, 468 U.S. 42, 50 (1984); Mitchum, 407 U.S. at 242-43 (noting that the enforcement of federal rights is of the highest priority). By delaying proceedings in the underlying matter indefinitely, the stay has in essence taken from Petitioners—without any process, let alone adequate process—the opportunity to have the deprivations of their civil rights adjudicated by the district court and a jury of their peers. This stay thus precludes Petitioners from any relief for the violations of their constitutional rights wrought by PA 436. See Felder, 487 U.S. at 148.

In this regard, Perez v. Campbell, 402 U.S. 637 (1971) is noteworthy. In that case, the Court dealt with the conflict between the Bankruptcy Act and a state "financial responsibility" motorist statute. In so doing, it found that the conflicts presented by the state statute violated the Supremacy Clause. The Court also noted that the conflict was created, and the state law invalidated by the Supremacy Clause, because the state law undermined the "declared purpose" of the federal Bankruptcy Act. Id. at 654. In that case the court held that there was "no reason why the States should have broader power to nullify federal law." Id. at 652.

Here, however, the Supremacy Clause is useless to resolve statutory conflicts with other federal legislation. It is not the federal Bankruptcy Act that is being frustrated and interfered with, but rather the Civil Rights Act – i.e. the protection of individuals' rights under the United States Constitution -- that is being undermined. The exercise of this Court's discretion in staying proceedings in the Phillips case – as well as other § 1983 cases -- interferes with the purpose, intent, and effectiveness of the federal Civil Rights Act. As in Perez, in the Phillips case there is "no reason" justifying this Court's Extended Stay Order, (Dkt. 166), to "nullify federal law," (i.e., the Civil Rights Act of 1871) such that it "frustrates" its "full effectiveness." Id.

The constitutional conundrum caused by the application of the automatic stay to the Phillips case are well described in a recent opinion from the Eastern District of California, V.W. ex rel. Barber v. City of Vallejo, No. 12-1629, 2013 WL 3992403 (E.D. Cal. Aug. 2, 2013). In Vallejo, the court makes the following, highly pertinent observation with regard to the issue of a conflict between the purposes of the Bankruptcy Code and the Civil Rights Act:

[A]larming as it is, as the bankruptcy statute appears to be written, a municipality may erase its own liability to persons whom it and its officers have willfully and maliciously deprived of their civil rights—and even their lives—by filing for bankruptcy. This extraordinary result would appear to exalt the bankruptcy laws over the civil rights laws (even though the civil rights laws, like the bankruptcy laws, are anchored in the constitution).

Id. at 4. In Vallejo, however, because neither party had actually raised this issue --and indeed the plaintiff had conceded the jurisdiction of the Bankruptcy Court to discharge her claims -- the Court did not decide the merits of this issue. Nonetheless, the Vallejo court went out of its way to identify and flag how the Bankruptcy Code, if improperly applied, may well unconstitutionally interfere with rights secured by § 1983 and the Fourteenth Amendment.

Once again, it should be noted that, unlike the Phillips case herein, Vallejo involved direct claims for money damages against the debtor municipality. In Phillips, the application of the stay to the non-debtor defendants is even more contrary to public policy inasmuch as it allows those defendants to perpetuate constitutional violations by attaching themselves to a third-party bankruptcy proceeding.

Rather than “exalt” the Bankruptcy Code over the Civil Rights Acts, the automatic- and equitable-stay provisions of the Code should be construed to be consistent with § 1983, thus avoiding a constitutional conflict. Where a federal statute is overbroad, as the Bankruptcy Code is here, the Court should construe the statute to avoid constitutional problems if the statute is subject to such a limiting construction. New York v. Ferber, 458 U.S. 747, 769 (1982).
